After winning three straight contests from the Bostons, the champion Brooklyns fell by the Bostons, the Charleson Drowniyas ten by played by the team from the Hub. The Brooklyns are still second, however, and as soon as they can have the services of Daly and Kelley they can be expected to make a hard chase after the heavy hitting Philadelphias. The Quakers, by the way, won their fourth consecutive ball from the New Yorks, who are still in need of pitchers and are not being "robbed by the umpire" as certain persons are trying to all the public. Boston's victory makes it posable for the New Yorks to become tail enders within the next few days unless the team is bolstered up, as Ewing's men will begin a series of three games with the Brooklyns today, while the Philadelphias go to Boston for a day, while the rimadelphias go to boston for a set-to. The Pittsburgs won a ten-inning game from St. Louis and tied Chicago for fifth place, the Cheinnati-Chicago game being postponed in account of rain. The results:

Boston, 10; Brooklyn, 5. Philadelphia, 7; New York, 5, Pittsburg 6: St. Louis, 5. At Chicago, rain

BOSTON, 10; BROOKLYN, 5.

The Bostons had to win some time and their turn came yesterday at Washington Park. Selee's men, who have been gradually improving, got into the game with heavy hitting and dever fielding, which greatly assisted Pitcher Dineen, even though the latter was generous with bases on balls. As the Brooklyns couldn't hit with their accustomed snap and also handled the ball rather raggedly there was not much doubt about the result after the fourth inning, in spite of a game but fruitless rally by the Champions in the ninth inning. Kitson, who has not shown his true form so far this season, was put into the Manager Hanlon. In the fourth inning he was hammered to all parts of the field and was taken out. Then Harry Howell, the youngster who was so effective with Baltimore last year, took a shy at the former champlons. It was his first League game this year nd, considering everything, he did well enough plons. It was his first League game this year and, considering everything, he did well enough to convince the cranks that he will be of great value later on. The Bostons did not solve his rapid cross fire delivery until the ninth inning when they batted in two runs that under the old rules would have been earned.

Strange to say, McGuire's throwing arm was out of gear. He made two scorable errors and other short throws that allowed the Hub baserunners to steal bags almost at will. Then the usually reliable Sheckard muffed a fly and also let a grounder go through his legs while Dahlen got in a fumble. These misplays were so glaring that the cranks, accustomed to sharp fielding by the "Champs," rubbed their eyes and looked on in amazement. In striking contrast the Bostons played such fast, snappy ball that those who gaw the game freely predicted that the Beaneauers would begin to climb the ladder without further delay. Though Long was out of it because of a lame ankle, Barry played shortstop with extreme cleverness, some of his achievements depriving Brooklyn of what seemed sure hits. Hamilton's all-around work, Tenney's batting, together with that of Stahl, and Sullivan's finished performance behind the bat were among the features. The fielding of Jennings and Howell was also worthy of mention. The score:

PHILADELPHIA, 7; NEW YORK, 5.

The hapless New Yorks were beaten again by the Philadelphias on the Polo grounds yesterday, making with the two drubbings they received at the Quaker City and the one administered on Tuesday four straight knockouts for the series. Manageri Ewing, who has tried all manner of shifts and devices to stem the tide of defeat, was forced to make another change in the middle of yesterday's game, but his team was beaten by the time it was accomplished. The Philadelphias continued to rap the bail in the direction of third base—the New York's hoodoo corner—and after Grady had fumbled one, thrown another wild and allowed a third to slip through his legs Ewing sent him to the bench to cool off and Mercer was put in the field to cover that territory. The latter managed to fumble a grounder before the game ended, but fortunately for the New Yorks the misplay cost nothing. misplay cost nothing.

Louis club, has not as yet paid over any money to the Brooklyn club for the transfer of McGraw and Robinson, for the simple reason that the two players have positively refused to sign with St. Louis. While Reach was here on Tuesday, Robison in Cleveland had a talk over the long distance phone with McGraw in Baltimore. Whatever was said is not known, but McGraw's friends are positive that he once again refused to go to St. Louis.

A despatch was sent to H. R. Von der Horst of the Brooklyn club late Tuesday night asking him to meet and confer with Haulon and Abell at Washington Park yesterday afternoon. Von der Horst showed up and after the game the magnates went into secret session. Not one of them would talk for publication, but from what could be learned from the Philadelphia end, they were considering a positive offer from Reach and Rogers for McGraw's release. If Robison of St. Louis has declared the deal off because of his inability to sign the players in question, and Reach has offered enough money. Philadelphia may secure McGraw, but as a matter of fact Hanlon and Abell are said to be opposed to making the transfer because of business reasons. In addition to the kicking Doyle got into an altercation with one of the spectators who was leaning over the rail back of first base. It was in the ninth inning when Mercer, feeling somewhat elated at catching a four fly from the bat of Flick, threw the ball over Doyle's head. The first baseman walked rather dejectedly after it. When he had picked it up and returned it to the diamond the spectator ve lied at him: "Say, Doyle, I paid 50 cents to see you win. You're a dead one, the same as you were last year."

You're a dead one, the same as you were last year."
Doyle turned and walked up to where the man was standing and called him down, after which he went back to his base and the play went on. The first kick against the unspire's decisions was registered in the third inning by McKarland of the Philadelphias, who insisted that Doyle had been caught napping off second hase when the umpire had called him safe. In the last half of the same inning several of the New York players, including Doyle, Davis and Gleason, gathered around the judge of play to protest against his verdict in declaring Foster out at first. Gleason gesticulated wildly and threw a but away from him in great disgust. Hawley was so provoked when the umpire called a ball against him in the eighth inning that he slammed his cap to the ground. Bowerman made his first appearance as a New York catcher and gave a good account of himself.

The Bostons have been hitting almost as hard and consistently as the Philadelphias, but have been handicapped by weakness in the box, a fault not confined to the Hub team.

The St. Louis team is falling, contrary to expectations. If Robison lets go of McGraw and his team doesn't finish near the top, there'll be some hot shot fired at the ex-Cleveland magnate in the Mound City.

Daly may be able to play with the Brooklyns on Saturday. His ankle is almost well. Kelley may get back on third base to-day, but Casey will be laid up for some time to come. The little fellow has a bad attack of rheumatism.

The attempt to drive Umpire Connolly off the League staff is not only unfair to that official, but does not reflect ceeds upon those who are persistently hauling him over the coals in order to cover up the mistakes of ball players.

The second Weld and the second Newell were almost abreast with the first Newell on the start and kept even up until the first half mile had been covered when they gradually began alipping to the rear and the race settled down to a fight between the first and second crews.

The boats fought it out nose to nose down the balance of the course, but the Weld gained gradually until they had the Newell stightly at a disadvantage about a quarter of a mile from the finish. There Higginson ran the stroke of his crew up amazingly high but young Guy Bancroft methin without changing the powerful haul which had characterized the Weld crew, and his crew passed the mark a short half length shead. The second Newell was getting the best of the second Weld about a half mile from the finish and Locke put the stroke up until he was again on even terms. The Newell, however, held its own until the spurt was finished and then put on extra speed and crossed the line a length and a scant half to the good.

The Weld crew rowed a long, well sustained shoot of the legs, ending with a smooth haul of the shoulders and a fast break of the arms at the finish. They had excellent control of their slides and their boat never went off keel or elumped. The same criticism applies to the Newell crew, who also showed fine form, but their leg drive was not so pronounced and they used their bodies more and did not keep their stroke so long and well sustained as the Weld boys. The former rowed the stroke they had been taught from the beginning to the end of the race and kept on sawing wood even when the Newell crew by raising the stroke forged ahead of them. Their form was almost identical with that of the Cornell crews of '97 and '98. Ned Hanlon, who is coaching the Boston schoolboys, was out at the finish in his single. He was very enthusiastic over the race. He said: 'I never saw better rowing among college men Both the crews were daisies and did great credit to the mon who developed them." CORBETT WANTS ACTION.

Willing to Fight at Westchester If the Coney Island Club Gets No License.

As the date of the encounter between Jim Jeffries and Jim Corbett draws nigh and the chances of the Seaside Sporting Club receiving a license by the Police Commissioners grows dimmer Corbett tires of the uncertainty and wants the question of the battle ground settled without further parley. As there are available places aside from this club to pull off the combat Corbett is now willing to go elsewhere, and for the first time since the match was made he is perfectly satisfied to let the affair take place at W. A. Brady, who all along has had faith in the ability of the Seaside club to secure a icense, has finally arrived at the conclusion that delays are dangerous, and yesterday he looked up George Considine, Corbett's manager, and told him that he was getting tired of waiting.

"Next Friday the fight will be just a week off," he said. "and something must be done. In order to give the out-of-town sports a chance to get here the Seaside club ought to go ahead and state whether it intends to bring off the fight or not. I don't propose to have Jeffries train for nothing, and I guess Corbett is not going to run any risk of becoming stale himself by too much work either. If the Westchester A. C. can hold the fight let us go there. That's all there is to it."

"lagree with you," Considine replied, "and Corbett says he is willing to fight there." That ended the confab. Later to THE SUN reporter Brady said: "I will wait patiently until May II. Jeffries will not quit training and will be ready to fight. If the club fails to keep its contract we will claim the $2,500 which it has deposited and be ready to fight at Westchester a week later. I don't care to throw anybody down, but business is business, and I have complied with everything in the articles of agreement. Considine told me that Corbett would go to Westchester and his consent completes things to the satisfaction of every one."

Tom O'Rourke, when told that Corbett was willing to fight at Westchester, said: "I have nothing to say. The club will get a license and we will be able to pull off the fight on May II." Fordham vs. Cornell, at Fordham.

Lakewood II. Wins a Fast Game by Onequarter Goal From the Deven Team.

LAREWOOD, May 2.- By the narrow margin of one-quarter goal, after the fastest polo ever seen in Lakewood, the crack Devon team was defeated by Lakewood II. this afternoon. The vanquished team was forced by handicap differences to give its opponent five goals, and an earned goal made up for the gift, but a foul discounted its score by just enough to lose the game. WORLD'S CHAMPION SHOWS HIS BEST GAME AT DYKER MEADOW. After a Brave Start Low Falls an Easy Victim to the Famous Exponent of the Game
-All the Previous Scores on the Links Surpassed - An Enthuslastic "Gallery." Harry Vardon, the visiting world's golf champion, let out a link yesterday and proved in the most decisive way that he is the wonder worthy of the big types that have heralded his name The great Automatic Golf Machine only slipped one cog. Two cogs or so were partially slipped. but these don't count. The event was a thirty six hole match against George Low, the home pro, at the Dyker Meadow Golf Club, the conditions being $250 for the winner and $50 to the loser. Low set out like a sure enough "good thing," a final climax that would have greatly pleased his friends in the club, and, facing the eleventh hole, Low was 3 up. Then Vardon shook himself, like a spaniel getting out of a bath, and, turning on full steam, made the next eight holes in 31 and he was then 3 up. This was a marvellous change in the situation. None realized it more than the Dyker Meadow enthusiasts, who had been cherishing hopes that their pro might be a world's champion. At the end of the match proper Vardon was 10 up and 9 to play. Including the bye holes Vardon was 11 up on the thirty-six holes played.

The way it was done was as impressive as the dry details of the totals. The record for thirtysix holes had been 163 and the nine-hole record 36, all made by professionals, while the amateur mark for eighteen holes was 83, made by F. W Menzies. Vardon made his rounds in 39, 37, 36 (after rimming for a 35) and 37. a total of 149. Low's aggregates were 38, 43, 45 and 39, the total being 168.

It was both the greatest golf and the greates turnout of onlookers ever seen on a Metropolitan links. The gallery included from faraway links such noted amateurs as C. B. Macdonald, H. M. With the men were the spruciest and best arrayed of Brooklyn's golfing girls and married women.

and best arrayed of Brooklyn's golfing girls and married women.

The "gallery" was marshalled by Norman S. Dike, golf captain of the club, who had the aid of a long rope carried by a staff of caddies. Next to the regular hazards the convolutions of the rope was the greatest puzzle to the two players, but zeal, not Capt. Dike, was responsible for this. The course, which slopes in undulating hills to the waters of New York Bay, was a picture in its contrasting hues of turf, while the background of puffing steamers and white-sailed ships added a picturesque finish to the view that charmed all beholders from the phlegmatic Vardon to the giddiest of the young golfing girls.

phlegmatic Vardon to the giddlest of the young golfing girls.

The course was longer than it had ever been extended to before, for the new turf tees, which have all been built back of the old ones, were used, so that the real playing distance was nearer 3,050 yards than the 3,003 yards called for on the score card. Every part of the links was in perfect order, but the putting greens, only exposed yesterday for the season, were perhaps a trifle variable, for the green was as deceptive as a woman's smiles. The was as deceptive as a woman's smiles. The scheduled lengths of the holes were respec-tively 431, 188, 310, 320, 283, 370, 517, 289 and 295

To take up the match, low set off like a whirl-

Hesionals had a "sing-song" at the Bayview Hotel, with Low at the plano.

To take up the match low set off like a whirlwind, and, with 23 for the first six holes, he had shown ideal goif and then was 3 up. But he missed his drive and a mashie shot on the next hole, taking 7, while Varden holed in a par 5. The next two holes were halved in fours, leaving Low 2 up at the turn.

Vardon made a mess of the first hole on the second round. Through confusion in the crowd as he was addressing the ball, he topped the drive. A mashle pitted only made the hillitop, when, with no excuse except the desire to get a long ball, which with others is called pressing, Vardon sciaffed his brassey. It took him 5 to make the green, but the last shot laid the ball dead. However, Low, who had played a faultiess game, was in the easy street of playing one off two and he won the hole in 5 to 6. It was a great 6 for Vardon considering the bad beginning.

a faultiess game, was in the easy street of playing one off two and he won the hole in 5 to 6. It was a great 6 for Vardon considering the bad beginning.

Three down, with eight to go for the morning play, Vardon showed the true strength that has made him the "vital spark" of golf. The next eight holes Vardon made in thirty-one strokes. Low made no bad breaks, save that on the fifth and sixth greens he missed vard puts to halve, yet in those few holes Vardon not only wiped out his opponent's lead but remained 3 up.

A crowd surged about the players as they set out two hours later for the second eighteen holes. Thereafter, on most of the holes, the drives and approach shots were made between rows of enthusiastic golfing admirers, and 2,500 persons were estimated to be on the links.

"I will have to keep on with a clatter to beat Low," said Vardon, as he walked to the tee.

Vardon showed the clatter of a Derby winner coming to the winning post. He made the nine holes in 36, rimming the last hole for a 35. He then had the match won, by 10 up and 9 to play. Keeping on for the exhibition holes, Vardon failed for a 3 on the second hole through an over-approach. The sixth, where Vardon played the second over the green, cost a 5. The stroke lost was regained on the 517-yard hole, which, contrary to every record of the links, Vardon won in 4, after getting close to the hole on his mashie approach. Low won two holes on the last nine, and the game he showed throughout would have made any "pro" but Vardon nervous.

"We will have Vardon at Chicago on his return," said C. B. Macdonaid "But right now! Yardon nervous.

"We will have to play the best ball of our professionals in pairs. When Low can't beat him, what's the use of putting any of them against Vardon singly."

This is the highest compliment the Automatic Golf Machine has as yet received in this country. He will pin it to his pillow when the latter and the game.

Hor Springs, May 2.—A cross-country handicap caused a lot of sport here this afternoon among the golfers. They played for a handsome cup put up by C. M. Hinkle of Bar Harber. L. E. Larocque, Jr. of the Garden City Club, was the lucky man. Play began from a high point in front of the hotel and the question seemed to be whether to send high balls or low balls over the avenue of trees skirting the hills. This made a spectacular start. Play virtually went around the course backward, there being but two points for holing out, one at the opposite end of the links and the finish placed on the side of a terrace near the Casino in a bucket. Considerable difficulty was found here, much to the amusement of the gallery. The scores were:

Lacrosse. The Swarthmore lacrosse team won from Stevens Institute at Hoboken yesterday by a score of 6 goals to 3. The Stevens team was weakened by the absence of three of its regular men. After Stevens had scored first blood the visitors began to play a fast game and quickly made five goals before the first half ended. In the second half the exhibition was pretty. Stevens made two more goals while Swarthmore was only able to add one to their score.

WITH THE TROTTERS. Dariel Beats Laura W. in a Brush on the Speedway. Dariel, 2:0714, the shapely little brown pacing mare that gave the dust to Bumps, 2:0314. and Robert J., 2:0114, last fall, made her reappearance on the Speedway yesterday afternoon. The daughter of Alcander went lame after her brush with the champions, and until yesterday she had taken part in none of the battles of the road. Capt. W. H. Boyce, who has charge of Dariel, drove her half a mile the other day in 1:07 and pronounced her sound and fit to measure strides with anything on the Speedway. Her competitor vesterday was her stable companion, Laura W., driven by Dr. H. H. Kane, who owns both pacers. The brown mare proved to be too fleet for the chestnut, but Dariel was brought to a drive at the end of the brush, and was not more than a length in front as they passed the point of rocks:

Some of the best trotting teams in town were on the road yesterday, yet no two of them came together. C. K. G. Billings drove his bay mares Emma S. and Arigal, 2:20%, in double harness, and sept them over the road at a smashing clip. Just as they were starting homeward Louis J. Kahn's chestnut pacer Hindrance came along and tried to pass the team. A neck-and-n-ck race for the lead resulted, with the honors about evenly divided at the end. Hindrance pulled a 275-pound wagon with two heavyweight passengers aboard. Later in the afternoon he outfooted the speedy pacer. Peter H., 2:28%, driven by A. R. Myers. Commodore Porter, 2:13, and the chestnut pacer Little George, 2:27%, had three rounds, the pacer always getting away too fast for the trotter, and the latter as often outfooting the former as they neared the end of the speeding ground—Jack Curry held the ribbons over Little George.

Frederick Gerken has purchased the speedy trotter, Lambert Wilkes, 2:32%, and is now driving him on the Speedway in double harness with Golden Star, 2:19%. Both horses are light chestnut in color, handsome in form and stylish in carriage, and closely matched, and they make an attractive team. Lambert Wilkes finished fourth when Palister gained his record of 2:16% at Empire City Park last October. He is by Wilkes Spirit, Jr., the sire of the well-known trotter, Chester, 2:12%.

Frederick A. Hanmond of the Plaza Hotel is driving a newly matched trotting team on the Speedway. One of the horses is The Czar, a fast black six-year-old by Chimes, the sire of The Abbot, 2:08%, from the late David S. Hammond's favorite road mare, Frederika, 2:20%, by Almonarch, 2:24%. He is a brother in blood to Fantasy, 2:06, and is a remarkably fast horse in single harness. The other trotter in Mr. Hammond's pair is Khakan, a chestnut four-year-old of showy action, by the former champien of trotters and pacers at the American Horse Exchange. Iso, 2:11, the fast trotter that new owners to-night at W D. Grand's monthly sale of trotters and pacers at the American Horse Exchange. Isgo, 2:11, the fast trotter that D. R. Hanna formerly drove on the road at Cleveland, is among the number. He defeated some of the top-notchers on the Speedway last fall. Gordon Sim, 2:2015, the Nova Scotia trotter that held his own in a long brush with Honor Bright last week; Ryland T., 2:0714; Daylight, 2:1614; Albert Powell, 2:1814, and Monopoly, 2:2214, are some of the other trotters to be sold. Among the pacers are the fast Brooklyn road horse T. N. B., 2:1015, that once wrested a heat from Joe Patchen, 2:0114 at the Detroit Grand Circuit meeting. Highland Lassie, 2:1314; Queen of Kings, 2:144, and Dan Robinson 2:15. The sale will be continued to morrow evening. Nearly one hundred horses are to be sold.

The Masters' Tournament at the Manhattan Chess Club.

The third round of the Masters' tournament of the Manhattan Chess Club was begun on Tuesday evening, when the order of play was as follows: Rocamora vs. Simonson Hanham vs. Delmar, Roething vs. Koehler, Halpern vs. Ettlinger and Schmidt a bye. Play on the last three boards was concluded on Tuesday evening, but on the first board it was in the early hours yesterday morning when a result was reached. As it was, this game proved to be the most interesting and brilliant contest witnessed at the Manhattan Chess Club for a number of years. Rocamora selected the Zukertort opening, and from the very start things became interesting. With 23. P—QB3, Sinnonson committed an error of judgment. The position, however, was so difficult that Rocamora required one hour and twenty minutes before he was ready with his reply. He had now twenty-two additional moves to make within the prescribed time limit, and when Sinnonson resigned after thirty-two moves a cheer went up in the club. Delmar beat Hanham in an irregular opening after twenty-five moves; Roething and Roehler drew an even game throughout, a Petroff's defence after thirty-two moves, and Halpern and Ettlinger, who contested a Ruy Lopez for twenty-six moves, drew also an even game. The record up to date:

NEWS OF THE WHEELMEN. Secretary Sturmey Declares Off the I. C. A. Worlds Championships.

A letter of peculiar and rather comical interest was received at the offices of the National Cycling Association yesterday from Henry Sturmey of London, Secretary of the International Cyclists' Association. Its general tenor is conciliatory and indicates a belief in England that Sturmey and the I. C. A. are still in influential existence in spite of the withdrawal of the European bodies and the formation of the I. C. U. There appears also a hope that the N. C. A may yet decide to stick by the remnants of the old international organization, although the American body has already declared for the I. C. U. In the letter Sturmey save that if the N. C. A. becomes affiliated with the I. C. A. that the 1890 recards of the N. C. A. though made by "outlaws" should be admitted as world's records. Another statement of general interest which indicates how strong is the new and how weak the old body is the following: "As the result of the happening at the meeting there will be no world's championships at Paris this year, at any rate there will be none held by the I. C. A." The meeting referred to is the last one of the I. C. A. at which France. Switzerland, Germany, Italy, Austria and Belgium withdrew and formed the International Cyclists' Union. The new body will hold its world championships, with America represented in Paris the same as the I. C. A intended to do, and the competitors will be about the same, because England has no professional track champions of great consequence and Ireland and Scotland have not got any at all. As a secssion movement is now in progress in Canada that has for its object an affiliation with the I. C. I. it is likely that England and Australia will be the only countries having crack racing men that will not be represented, and thus the new body of international "outlaws" will start off by a large eclipse of the old organization. national Cyclists' Association. Its general tenor is conciliatory and indicates a belief in England

SPORTS AT THE EXPOSITION.

A. G. Spalding Will Ask That a Marathon A. G. Spalding, the recently appointed Amercan director of athletics at the Paris Exposition, sailed yesterday on the St. Louis. He will go directly to Paris and confer with Commissioner-General Ferdinand W. Peck and the other Exposition authorities in relation to the conduct of the various sports that are to be held there during the coming season. Since his appointment Mr. Spalding has been in communication with the leaders in this country of all pranches of sport. The inquiries instituted have resulted in several petitions being prepared which will be presented to the management on his arrival. One of these is from E. E. Babb, President of the

of these is from E. E. Babb, President of the New England Association of the A. A. U. requesting the addition of a Marathon road race to the athletic programme. The long distance event has been a favorite one with the Bostonians ever since its revival at Athens four years ago. The Boston A. A. has held the race annually, and a number of competitors will go from America if the event is included in the Paris programme.

Another petition is instigated by William M. Barry of Jersey City, asking that Gaelic football be included in the list of sports. Barry is President of the Jersey City club that plays the game regularly, and he is already making preparations to send a Jersey City team to compete against the picked Irish teams in case the proposition is agreed to. Mr. Spalding said before leaving that he would use his best endeavors to have these two events added, and will cable if he receives a favorable answer, so that the teams may be in readiness to compete.

COLUMBIA CREWS RACE.

First 'Varsity the Winner of Several Brushes on the Hudson River

Dr. Peet held so many races between Columbia's various crews yesterday that the Hudson had a typical regatta aspect. The first and second 'Varsity boats were the special contestants, as two half-mile brushes and a mile race were rowed by them. The first 'Varsity was were rowed by them. The first Varsity was taken three miles up the river for pre-liminary work and met the second boat on the return a mile above the boat house, where the main race began. Dr. Peet got the crews off together and they rowed side by side for a quarter of a mile when Coxawain Bogue raised the stroke of the first boat from 30 to 32 and it gradually obtained a comfortable advantage, finally winning by two lengths of open water.

There have been several changes in the make-ups of the premier boats, the candidates being seated yesterday as follows: Deing seated yesterday as foliows: First Crew-O'Loughlin, bow; Jackson, 2; Mount, 3; Burt, 4; Nash, 5; Capt. Mackay, 6; Falconer, 7; Vulte, stroke; Bogue, coxswain. Second Crew-Wylie, bow; Coerr, 2; Oddie, 3; Heroy 4; Huffaker, 5; Irvine, 6; Maclay, 7; Boyeson, stroke; McClure, coxswain.

Later in the afternoon Dr. Peet put Huffaker at 4 in the first boat and Burt and Bradlev at 5 and 6 in the second boat. These joined the freshman crew in a half-mile brush, the first Varsity winning by a length from the second
